Position Description

The LEAD Coordinator for Faculty Development & Implementation leads PK–12 teacher development across Westminster's campus divisions. This role designs and facilitates professional development, coaches faculty in adopting new instructional practices, and guides the LEAD Educator innovation cohorts.

Serving as the connective thread across the school, this Coordinator ensures a shared vision and consistent implementation of the Westminster LEAD Framework school-wide, partnering closely with other LEAD Coordinators, and collaborating to identify gaps and build the LEAD Framework for school-wide implementation.

Primary Responsibilities

- Design and lead PK–12 professional development focused on innovative instructional practice
- Coach and mentor faculty and LEAD Educators across all divisions
- Facilitate innovation cohorts and collaborative teacher-learning communities
- Collaborate to identify gaps in innovation programming and build LEAD Framework solutions
- Align professional learning with the Westminster LEAD Framework and school mission
- Partner with LEAD Coordinators to ensure consistency across campuses
- Evaluate the impact of professional development and innovation initiatives
- Report outcomes and recommendations to school leadership

Desired Qualifications & Characteristics

- Demonstrated excellence in instructional coaching or faculty development
- Strong facilitation and public-speaking skills
- Deep knowledge of instructional best practices across grade levels
- Ability to build trust and buy-in across diverse faculty groups
- Strategic, systems-level thinking
- A collaborative, growth-oriented leadership style
- A deep commitment to Christ-centered education and student formation

Professional Impact

As the coordinator of PK–12 faculty development, this LEAD Coordinator plays a foundational role in shaping how innovation and Christ-centered teaching practice take root across every division, ensuring Westminster LEAD initiatives are implemented with excellence and coherence school-wide.
